Yeshiva Asks Ten Million For Medical School

Twenty of America's outstanding educators, headed by New York State Commissioner of Education Dr. Lewis A. Wilson as chairman, have accepted membership on the Educational Advisory Council of the Medical School of Yeshiva University, it was announced by Dr. Samuel Belkin, president. The Council will help in guiding the development of the University's projected Medical Center which will include Schools of Medicine, Dentistry, Nursing, Public Health and Post-Graduate Divisions.

Seven college presidents, four state commissioners of education, four city superintendents and five leaders of national educational associations representing eleven states are included in the Council's membership. "The Council will be called upon for advice and direction in the University's $25,000,000 expansion program which will start with the Medical School, the first to be established in this country under Jewish auspices," Dr. Belkin said. Dr. Wilson, the Council's chairman, stated: "I am hopeful that the Council will be of help to the University in developing a long-range plan for the Medical School. I think there is a need for additional opportunities in the field of medical education for young men living not only in New York State, but in the entire North Eastern Atlantic seaboard."

On December 15, 1950, New York State's Board of Regents, amended the Charter of Yeshiva University empowering it to open a Medical and Dental School. This marked the first such move by the Regents in 114 years for a Medical School charter.

In seeking to establish a Medical School, Yeshiva University is governed by the consideration that it is anxious to render service to the [illegible] and especially to call to Jewish contributions to American higher and professional education. As the first American University under Jewish auspices, "Yeshiva University is deeply concerned in blazing a trail of its own in the field of higher education in conformity with the great American democratic traditions of education and in harmony with the spiritual heritage of Judaism," Dr. Belkin said. "We are all aware of the oft-repeated predictions that there will be a nation-wide shortage of physicians. It is our intention to alleviate, in some measure, this serious situation which affects directly our nation's health and well-being."

In almost all fields of education, colleges and universities have kept pace with the population growth. However, while New York City's population has increased 4½ million since 1900, no new medical schools have come into being in this city since 1898. Insofar as the entire state is concerned the new school will be the first one opened in 25 years. In New York State, today, with a population of 14,830,000 there are only nine medical schools with a total enrollment, in 1949-50, of only 2,916 students. There were 581 graduates who completed their studies in the year 1949-50.

The University hopes to raise about 10 million dollars in 1951 which will make it possible to open the school in 1952. Negotiations are now going on with leading hospitals in the city to determine the areas of cooperation in the immediate objective, a Medical School. The University will organize Grade "A" Medical and Dental Colleges and provide eventually for 400 students in each of the two Schools. "The sole criterion for admission will be merit, ability, and character. No distinctions will be made as to the origin of the applicants," he stated.

With Dr. Belkin as president, Yeshiva University, has progressed constructively from the status of a theological seminary and college to that of a full-fledged university, offering courses of study leading

SILVER TO RETURN TO ZIONIST ARENA

Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver, of Cleveland, Ohio, one of the most controversial figures in Zionism, will return to the Zionist political arena at the World Zionist Congress scheduled to open in Jerusalem in August.

Dr. Silver, who has not participated in the deliberations of Zionist leadership since he resigned from the chairmanship of Jewish Agency's American section in 1949, will be a delegate to the Congress. He said at a press conference in Tel Aviv that he was not seeking any office in the Zionist organization, but did not say he would decline the presidency if it were offered to him.

The visitor also made it clear he would not settle in Israel at present and assume the leadership of the General Zionist party, as he had been invited to do so by some leaders of the party.

N.Y. Federation Funds Go To Heart Experiment

A three-year experiment with heart disease patients, made available by the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies of New York, with which the Committee for the Care of the Jewish Tuberculous is affiliated, is the first if its kind attempted in America. It was undertaken by the Altro workshop, known for its successful results during the past 35 years in rehabilitating tuberculosis patients in the sheltered atmosphere of the Workshop. There, patients make hospital garments at their own pace, are given frequent rest periods, constant encouragement and medical supervision.

Dr. Abraham Jezer, of Columbia University, called for "a complete change of attitude to the coronary problem by physicians. Continued encouragement must be given for the period of acute illness as well as during convalescence. Only in this way will the coronary avoid becoming unnecessarily a cripple." Repeated instances were seen during the course of the three-year experiment, Dr. Jezer pointed out, of cases who could not work at the outset because of angina or shortness of breath. Later on, these patients found they could work without difficulty. The increased efficiency of the muscles used in work, together with the loss of anxiety when a patient finds he can work, is likely to cause increased efficiency in the work of the heart muscle, Dr. Jezer said.

Dr. Jezer, who is assistant professor at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, explained that, after a thorough physical examination, cardiac patients began a work schedule of two hours in the morning and two hours in the afternoon with a rest period and lunch in between. After several weeks of observation, the schedule was increased to four and one-half hours of work each day and, if the patient's work capacity and physical condition permitted, was ultimately raised to seven hours a day. In each case, the patient set his own working pace and was paid prevailing union wage rates for similar work. Where necessary, Altro augments the patient's income to assure that the needs of the patient and his family will be met.

Of the 70 patients who participated in the cardiac experiment and completed the rehabilitation program, a follow-up study shows that 23 are currently employed, five of them in the garment trade they learned at Altro. Rehabilitated patients are working as salesmen, accountants and in many other occupations. One is a designer. Another, a businessman, got an executive position after four months at Altro, saying, "Why should I run a sewing machine when I can run an office." About 25 per cent of the cardiac patients referred to Altro were suitable only for sheltered work because of their advanced age or medical prognosis. Only 19 of the 70 patients had been ill for less than a year and many for more than five years. Although psychotherapy and group counseling is part of the Altro program, the demoralization suffered by long-term cardiac cases often created psychiatric problems beyond the scope of the Altro program.

Summing up his clinical observation of the patients, who suffered from both rheumatic and degenerative heart disease, Dr. Jezer said: "They revealed no deterioration as a result of the work done. Their reasons for not having worked previously was fear to return to work and contrary advice by physicians." To overcome the reluctance of patients with heart disease toward work, Dr. Jezer said that physicians must be able to provide "common sense counsel" and that physicians themselves must have both a broad understanding of cardiac disease and a sympathetic appreciation of the impact of social and economic difficulties on the life of the cardiac.

In adopting Dr. Jezer's report, the Cardiac Committee of the Committee for the Jewish Tuberculous recommended that the age limit of patients be extended from 18 to 55 to 18 to 60 years old. It recommended further that the Altro Workshop facilities be enlarged to enable permanent service to cardiacs who can work in a sheltered environment but who cannot be exposed to the stresses and strains of commercial industry.

The experiment showed that heart disease patients can often not only work up to an eight hour day under medical supervision but that frequently their conditions benefit both psychologically and

FORECASTS EXODUS OF AFGHANISTAN JEWS

The mass migration to Israel of still another persecuted section of Jewry has been forecast by Dr. Arieh Tartakower, chairman of the Israeli executive of the World Jewish Congress and Professor at the Hebrew University, during a mission in New York. The Jews of the primitive and dictatorial Moslem state of Afghanistan, numbering nearly 6,000, must be brought to Israel "as soon as possible", Dr. Tartakower said in a report. "This situation is very difficult and I believe that, immediately after the Iraqi exodus is concluded, we will have to tackle the problem of evacuating the Jewish community of Afghanistan by air."

WJC officials said that the Jews of Afghanistan live in a state of extreme poverty and insecurity and are subject to social, political and economic discrimination. The government is definitely anti-Jewish and the country's sole newspaper, which is controlled by the government, prints violently anti-Jewish material. The anti-Jewish measures adopted by the state include one drastically restricting the number and type of Jewish businesses. Jewish citizens are deliberately excluded from government employment, including the police and the military forces. Jews cannot own or till the soil.

Dr. Tartakower reported that, while anti-Jewish restrictions have been relaxed somewhat in Egypt, tension continues in Syria, and that a special WJC envoy will visit Turkey shortly in an effort to establish closer contact with Jewish communities in the Near East.

Ford To Bring To U.S. "Forgotten Ellie" Of D. P.

The Ford Foundation has granted $500,000 to speed resettlement in the United States of refugee scientists, professionals and artists before expiration of the Displaced Persons Act later this year. Announcement of the Ford contribution toward the campaign to bring 2,000 displaced intellectuals and their families to the country was made by Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr, dean of the Union Theological Seminary and chairman of the Resettlement Campaign for Exiled Professionals.

"In making this grant, the Ford Foundation has widened illimitably the horizons of hope for several thousand European scientists, artists and scholars and their families," Dr. Niebuhr said.

Since October, 1950, the International Rescue Committee, executive arm of the campaign, has brought 300 families of refugee specialists to America with the aid of the United States Displaced Persons Commission and the International Refugee Organization of the United Nations.

Doctor Niebuhr cited a statement by J. Donald Kingsley, director general of the refugee agency, that 26,000 other persons remained in camps in Europe, a "forgotten elite — the ablest, best-trained men and women in Europe — qualified practitioners of the arts, sciences and professions." Any of these who are to be brought here, he said, must be selected and cleared by the commission and receive visas before June 30 and must arrive in the country by November under the present law.

Many of the refugees, it was declared, have talents that could relieve current manpower deficiencies and contribute to the nation's culture, technology and economic growth. The majority of the men and women concerned were refugees from the spread of Communism throughout eastern Europe, the report said. Among them are specialists in the precise sciences offering assistance to the national defense work, reports the New York Times.

In recognition of this, the report continued, the various branches of the military have endorsed the campaign. Several early arrivals were listed as instructors in Army

Huge Israel Bond Issue Is On Sale In 100 U.S. Cities

The Israel Independence Bond Issue of $500,000,000, the largest foreign offering of its kind ever made in the United States, was placed on sale in more than 100 cities. Special events, punctuated by addresses from Israeli Cabinet members and Zionist leaders, stressed the importance of the bond campaign, which will cover three years. The bond issue was principally designed and authorized by the Israeli Keneset (parliament) to give Israel a solid economic foundation as well as to absorb an expected 600,000 newcomers within three years.

Israeli Finance Minister Eliezer Kaplan, speaking at the Sherry-Netherland Hotel, said that his Government planned to use the entire proceeds of the bond issue for the economic development of Israel. He said that his Government had prepared these preliminary allocations: $250,000,000 for industry and power projects; $130,000,000 for agriculture; $40,000,000 for transportation; $45,000,00 for trade and services; $30,000,000 for housing and $50,000,000 for the Central Development Bank in Israel, according to the New York Times.

The Israelis, Mr. Kaplan said, "look to the people of the United States for the establishment of a close working partnership in the expansion of our industrial and agricultural production."

"We are prepared," he added, "to take upon us the obligation to repay this loan with interest in American dollars because we are confident that the Israel bond issue will give us the means to increase our productive capacity."

Henry Morgenthau Jr., chairman of the board of the American Financial and Development Corporation, which is directing the campaign, hailed the [illegible] Dr. [illegible] chairman of the Greater New

Ben-Gurion Is In U.S. On First Official Visit

David Ben-Gurion, Prime Minister of Israel, arrived in Washington on his first official visit with an expression of gratitude for help given by the United States in the rebuilding of an independent home for Jews.

Stepping out of the Israeli National Airlines' big constellation making its maiden flight to the country, the stocky, white-haired Prime Minister told an audience of officials and friends at the Military Air Transport Terminal that his countrymen were "willing to defend human liberty at all times and with all our capacity."

The Israeli statesman, planning to spend about three weeks in the United States on what was described as a good-will visit, stressed in a statement delivered a few minutes after his 10 a.m. arrival that the early histories of the United States and Israel had "much in common." In the manner of the United States, he went on, his Government sought to demonstrate to the entire Near East "the effectiveness of democracy as a system of government and as an instrument of national progress and the welfare of the individual."

One of Mr. Ben-Gurion's activities while he is in the U. S. will be conversations with leaders of local committees sponsoring the $500,000,000 independence issue of State of Israel bonds. The Prime Minister noted in his arrival statement, read to a battery of television, newsreel and radio-recording instruments, that friendship between the two countries was "deeply rooted in a common spiritual heritage."

"It has been nurtured by the constant interest of American leaders, ranging over decades, in our people's abiding hope for the rebirth of Israel," he declared. "It has [illegible] President Truman, the government and

DIGGERS COME UPON NEW FINDS

A discovery termed unprecedented in the annals of Palestinian archaeology by the Israel Department of Antiquities was made recently at Caesarea by members of Kibbutz S'doth-Yam who came upon a giant statue of the period of the Crusaders in their fields. The statue, which is approximately twice life-size, is made of polished red porphyry and represents a seated figure dressed in a toga. Caesarea, about 25 miles south of Haifa, was the seat of the old Roman Empire in the Near East.

Another recent discovery which represents an important addition to the knowledge of prehistory in Palestine was the skull of a camel found in a deposit of Pleistocene sand west of Rishon in the Sharon Plain,—near the shores of the Mediterranean. Up to this discovery there had been no record of the existence of camels in the Pleistocene (lower Paleolithic or earlier Ice Age) period.

An unusually beautifully colored mosaic floor stemming from the later Byzantine period was also discovered recently along the side of the Haifa-Tel Aviv road, exactly opposite the entrance to "Shaar Hallyah," chief immigrant reception camp near Haifa. The find was made during the process of digging a tunnel for the water pipes of the "Mekoroth" Company. So far three rooms have been discovered at a depth of over about two feet under the surface. The Mosaic consists of geometric ornaments of fowl, fruits, and flowers and is considered to be a work of high artistic standard. Two Greek inscriptions were also found there. Diggings are being continued by the municipality of Haifa under the supervision of the Israel Government Department of Antiquities.

CLASS IN COOKERY

three-quarters cup sifted flour one-half teaspoon baking powder
one-half teaspoon salt
one cup white sugar
one-half cup shortening
two eggs
one teaspoon vanilla
two ounces unsweetened baking chocolate
one cup chopped nuts

Melt chocolate and allow to cool. Sift dry ingredients. Cream shortening; then add beaten eggs and mix together with dry ingredients. Add chocolate, nuts, and vanilla, and mix well altogether. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for thirty to thirty-five minutes. Cut into squares while still warm.

Icing

one-quarter cup butter
two cups sifted icing sugar
two tablespoons cream
one teaspoon vanilla
one and one-half squares unsweetened chocolate one-eighth teaspoon salt

Blend all ingredients together and mix until thick and smooth enough to spread, when the brownies have cooled.

Mrs. Abe. Lieberman,

184 Grange Avenue, Toronto.

CHEESE PASTRY COOKIES

one-half pound butter
one-half pound cream cheese
two eggs
two cups pastry flour

The night before it is planned to bake the cookies, prepare ingredients as directed: Separate eggs, and place whites in covered bowl in refrigerator until the next morning. Cream the butter and cheese, add the egg-yolks, one at a time, and blend. Add flour, one cup at a time, and blend. Place overnight in tightly-covered bowl in refrigerator. One-half hour before baking, remove dough from refrigerator. Divide dough into three parts. Roll lengthwise on floured board, until one-quarter inch thick. Cut lengthwise in strips; and then across, to form diamond-shapes. Beat egg-whites until stiff; and drop about three-quarters teaspoonful on each cookie; sprinkle with sugar. Bake cookies on floured cookie-sheets, in a medium-hot oven, for about twenty-five minutes, or until golden brown. This should yield nearly seven dozen cookies.

Mrs. J. Jaslow,

2292 Girouard Avenue, Montreal.

This recipe won third prize in its class in the contest sponsored by Montreal's Laurentian Chapter Number 520, Bnai Brith Women.

JEWS OF IRAN PRESS FOR ENTRY IN ISRAEL

While the Jewish Agency, through the financial assistance of the United Jewish Appeal is trying to bring 65,000 Iraqi Jews to Israel before the May 31 deadline set by the Baghdad government, new pressure for emigration is rising in Iran and neighboring countries. More than 7,000 Jews in Iran are destitute and homeless and are pressing for immediate immigration into Israel, it was revealed by Zvi Lurie, member of the Jewish Agency Executive and Director of the Immigration Department in New York. Two thousand are quartered in makeshift immigrant camps in two Jewish cemeteries in Teheran. Three thousand more are living from hand to mouth, without roofs over their heads, in provincial villages around the capital. An additional 2,000 Jews from Afghanistan, the British colony of Kuweit and the Bahrien Island protectorate have come to Iran this past year to await transfer to Israel.

All of these impoverished immigrants depend upon the Jewish Agency for maintenance, medical care, and transportation, money for which, as well as for their ultimate transportation to Israel, comes largely from the United Jewish Appeal campaign. In addition to the emergency cases, the Jewish population of Iran numbers some 100,000 who, according to reports, are becoming restive as a result of reports reaching them of anti-Jewish measures carried out against the Jews of Iraq.

Immigration from Iran has been proceeding at the rate of 1,500 a month. Up to now 13,000 Persian Jews have come to Israel, including 8,000 from Kurdistan. Some 3,500 Jews still in this province are menaced by a hostile native population and must be brought to Israel this year, Mr. Lurie said. The Jewish community of Afghanistan, which numbered 5,000 a year ago, has been partially liquidated. Twelve hundred have already been brought to Israel by way of Iran and 800 are now in Teheran awaiting transportation.

Naval Units Of Israel To Visit U.S.

The first visit of Israel warships to the United States — the battle-scarred "Haganah" and a destroyer escort — is part of world-wide ceremonies celebrating the third anniversary of Israel's Independence on May 11. It will also mark the launching of the $500,000,000 State of Israel bond drive, the purpose of which is to provide for the economic expansion of Israel and the absorption of an additional 600,000 immigrants in the next three years.

The two Israel naval units, a 301 foot frigate and a 225 foot corvette, are veterans of Israel's War of Independence. Carrying a complete crew of 191 men and officers, the warships, following a week's stay in New York, will visit cities on the Eastern coast. Arrangements have been made for the public to inspect the visiting ships in each of these cities, and the local Israel bond drive committee will be hosts to the visiting Israel seamen.

The ships are under the command of Commander Shlomo Erel, 30 years old, a graduate of the Maritime College for Officers in Italy. The visit of the Israel naval units marks the first time that representatives of the Jewish State's defense forces have come to the United States. Crew members will visit key cities throughout the U. S. in connection with the drive.

Members of the crew emigrated to Israel from 24 different countries. In many respects the "Misgav" and "Haganah" are unlike any naval ships afloat. Originally discarded by large naval powers, the Israel warships were salvaged from scrap, rebuilt from the water up and outfitted. Prior to Israel's declaration of independence, the ships were used to smuggle "illegal" immigrants into Palestine. They successfully ran the British blockade, and then with the proclamation of independence, were equipped with machine guns and dummy naval guns and ordered to steam out and engage enemy warships approaching to shell Tel Aviv. They were credited with the destruction of an enemy flagship in the Naval Battle of Gaza.

The Israel ships sail under unique naval regulations. No ship is permitted to enter or leave harbor on the Sabbath, except in times of war or grave emergencies. Every naval vessel is equipped with a Torah (Holy Scroll) and other religious objects. Each ship has a specially-designed synagogue. Each man is issued a Bible together with his uniform and rifle. The galleys serve Kosher food only. Naval commands are given in Hebrew, with the same terminology used more than 2,000 years ago in the navy of King Solomon. Following their stay in New York, the ships will visit Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, D.C., Norfolk, Savannah, Jacksonville, and Miami. In each city they visit, the officers and men will participate in Israel bond rallies.

Whole-grain cereals contain carbohydrates and proteins as well as iron and the B vitamins such as thiamine, riboflavin and niacin. They are especially valuable in the months when resistance must be built up.

Finer, tastier BREAD

Yours, with wonderful fast-rising DRY Yeast!

You're sure of tempting, delicious bread when you bake with Fleischmann's Fast Rising Dry Yeast! This wonderful new yeast keeps its full-strength and fast-acting qualities without refrigeration! Buy a month's supply!

WHOLE WHEAT BREAD

● Combine 3 c. boiling water, ¼ c. granulated sugar, 4 tsps. salt and 1 tbs. shortening; stir until sugar and salt are dissolved and shortening melted; cool to lukewarm. Meanwhile, measure into a large bowl 1 c. lukewarm water, 1 tbs. granulated sugar; stir until sugar is dissolved. Sprinkle with 3 envelopes Fleischmann's Fast Rising Dry Yeast. Let stand 10 minutes. THEN stir well.

Stir in cooled sugar-shortening mixture. Combine 5 c. once-sifted bread flour and 5 c. whole wheat or graham flour. Stir about half of the flours into yeast mixture; beat until smooth. Work in remaining flours and add additional bread flour, if necessary, to make a soft dough. Knead on lightly-floured board until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl and grease top of dough. Cover and set in a warm place, free from draught. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Punch down dough, grease top and again let rise until doubled in bulk. Punch down dough; turn out on lightly-floured board and divide into 4 equal portions; form into smooth balls. Cover lightly with cloth and let rest for 15 mins. Shape into loaves; place in greased loaf pans (4½" x 8½"). Grease tops, cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in hot oven, 400°, for 20 mins., then reduce oven heat to moderate, 350°, and bake about 20 minutes longer.

MILESTONES IN ISRAEL'S THREE YEARS OF INDEPENDENCE

The following chronology was prepared by the Public Relations Department of the Jewish Agency:

May 14: (Fifth day of Iyar, 5708) the British Mandate expires and Israel is proclaimed an independent, sovereign state. The White Paper, which since 1939 barred the entry of Jews to Palestine, and all other restrictive measures of the Mandatory are declared null and void.

Ten minutes after Israel's Declaration of Independence President Truman announces U.S. recognition of the new Jewish republic.

Palestine is invaded by the armies of Egypt, Jordan, Iraq, Syria and Lebanon.

May 16: Dr. Chaim Weizmann elected President of the Provisional Council of Government of the State of Israel.

May 20: Count Folke Bernadotte, of Sweden, named by Big Five of Security Council as U. N. Mediator in the Palestine war.

June 14: First Security Council truce closes one month of fighting during which Israel's embryo army fought the Arab invaders to a stand-still.

June 30: Last British soldier leaves Palestine, ending 30 years of British occupation.

July 9: Truce ends. Arabs first to open fire.

July 16: Second U.N. truce begins with Arab armies falling back on all fronts.

September 17: Count Bernadotte assassinated in Jerusalem. Dr. Ralph Bunche named Acting Mediator.

November 18: Israel Government announces arrival of 101,000 immigrants in past year despite Arab attack.

1949

January 19: Export-Import Bank grants $100,000,000 loan to Israel.

January 25: Half a million Israelis go to the polls to elect Israel's first Knesseth (Parliament).

February 14-17: First Knesseth session in Jerusalem elects Dr. Weizmann first President of Republic of Israel.

February 24: Israel and Egypt sign first armistice of Palestine war.

February 25: Israel and U.S.A. exchange ambassadors; Dr. James G. McDonald accredited to Tel Aviv and Eliahu Elath to Washington.

March 8: David ben Gurion forms coalition government consisting of Mapai, Religious Bloc, Progressive Party and Sephardim.

March 7: Israeli troops occupy Elath on Gulf of Aqaba.

April 23: President Weizmann declares, during U.S. visit, that Israel guarantees full freedom to all religious institutions in the exercise of their functions.

April 26: A program of rationing and austerity to alleviate shortages and combat inflation submitted by Government to Knesseth.

May 4: (Fifth day of Iyar, 5709) Israel marks first anniversary of independence.

May 11: Israel admitted to U.N. by 37 to 12 vote.

September 1: Knesseth approves Israel's first annual ordinary budget of $285,000,000.

September 8: Conscription law passed prescribing compulsory military service for all men between 18 and 49; all unmarried women between 18 and 34.

October 20: Government reports first five months of austerity resulted in 37 point drop in cost of living index.

November 21: Israel's Jewish population passes one million mark.

December 5: Knesseth declares Jerusalem internationalization plan, envisioned in U.N. partition resolution, no longer valid.

December 9: General Assembly approves internationalization of Jerusalem by 38 to 14 vote with 7 abstentions.

December 13: Rejecting Jerusalem internationalization as "utterly incapable of implementation," Ben Gurion announces future Knesseth sessions will be held in that city.

December 18: El Al, Israel National Air Line, inaugurates regular service to Europe.

February 21: Finance Ministry reports $250,000,000 investments in Israel in 1949.

March 29: Knesseth votes law for the "Encouragement of Capital Investments" which grants special privileges to foreign investors.

April 4: By 9-0 vote, with U.S. and Britain abstaining, Trusteeship Council adopts internationalization statute for Jerusalem. Israel and Jordan categorically reject plan.

April 18: Jewish Agency reports arrival of 397,246 immigrants between May 14, 1948, and January 1, 1950.

April 23: (Fifth day of Iyar, 5710) Israel marks second anniversary of independence.

April 30: Israel Government and Jewish Agency form joint committee to determine, integrate, and implement immigration and colonization policy.

May 10: Finance Minister Kaplan reports 65 percent population increase in two years; 35 percent rise in economic output.

May 26: Aubrey Eban succeeds Eliahu Elath as Ambassador to U.S.

May 28: Israel submits plan to limit U.N. authority in Jerusalem to jurisdiction over holy places.

July 13: Foreign Minister Sharett defines Israel's foreign policy as one of non-identification with either bloc in the cold war.

July 31: Israel institutes rationing of shoes and clothing.

August 3: Israel offers medical supplies to U.N. forces in Korea.

September 6: Fifty American business men and communal leaders, meeting in Jerusalem, pledge U.S. Jewry will raise one billion dollars through U.J.A., bond sales, grants-in-aid and private investments for Israel's three-year development and immigration program.

October 15: Israel's first cabinet crisis touched off by differences over proposed cabinet changes.

October 25: Cabinet crisis resolved. Ben Gurion reshapes government.

October 29: Twelve hundred delegates to National Planning Conference in Washington confirm American Jewry's support for Israel's three-year program.

November 14-15: Municipal elections throughout Israel. Results indicate trend to right with General Zionists emerging second strongest party.

January 8: Jewish Agency reports arrival of 500,000 immigrants since May, 1948.

January 10: Export-Import Bank grants Israel new $35,000,000 loan for agricultural development.

January 15: Monnett B. Davis succeeds James G. McDonald as U.S. Ambassador to Israel.

January 30: Knesseth approves acceptance of technical aid from U.S. under Point Four.

February 14: Coalition Cabinet resigns following no-confidence vote in Knesseth on issue of education in immigrant camps.

February 27: Knesseth authorizes Finance Ministry to float $500,000,000 bond issue in U.S. in May.

February 28: Government announces that outgoing cabinet will remain in office until new elections have been held.

March 22: Government informs U.N. Truce Commission it will resume Huleh marshland reclamation despite Syrian objections.

April 17: Security Council opens hearing on Israel-Syrian border clashes which occurred after Syrian troops shot and killed seven Israeli policemen.

May 1: Half billion dollar Israel bond drive opens in U.S.

May 10: Israel marks third anniversary of independence.

CANADIAN SPORTS PARADE

TELEVISION, whatever you think of it, has at least rendered a service to the International Baseball League. Almost singlehanded, it has chased the Little Giants from Jersey City, up and over the Canadian border and right into Ottawa's Lansdowne Park. The new communication medium cannot claim the entire credit for the move, however, for that stalwart, sporting gentleman, Tommy Gorman of Ottawa, was pulling like mad on the Canadian end of the tow rope. Now that the Capital boasts an International League club, it's expected that the well-seasoned rivalry of Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto will be sustained during the summer season, to be continued in the fall on the football gridiron.

Capital Sporting Centre:

There seems to be little concern whether Ottawa can support a Triple-A baseball entry, and this optimism is soundly based on the Capital's historical record as a rabid sport town.

Long a hot-bed of hockey and football, Ottawa will undoubtedly honour the Giants with the same enthusiasm which characterized their support of the great Senators in the years of their NHL glory and the die-hard backing accorded their Roughriders in the Inter-provincial Football League each season. No team could ask for more.

Tommy Gorman has renewed his lease on Lansdowne Park for another eight years and the club is considering a plan to renovate the present grandstand (capacity 12,000), while the addition of permanent bleachers to seat 2,000 is also being discussed should the baseball experiment exceed expectations.

All in all, the advent of the Ottawa Giants into the International League should do more than any other single factor to increase Canadian interest in baseball.

The Great Gorman:

This week we dropped in on Tommy Gorman to ask him about Ottawa's IBL prospects. Gorman had not the slightest reservation. "Ottawa has always been a great sport centre. During our years in the Border League we have built up a strong baseball following in the Ottawa Valley. The Giants just can't miss here. They're a natural."

Asked about the park itself, Gorman described his newly erected home run fence. "For a home run in Landsdowne Park, a batter will have to swat 315 feet to right or left field or 386 feet to centre," he answered. "But," smiled Gorman, "we've got the pitchers to discourage too much of that." By comparison, Maple Leaf Stadium's home run distance is 305 and 300 feet to right and left field, with a 425-foot drive to top the centre field wall.

Tommy Gorman believes that the growing shortage of younger American players (due to military call) should prove an opportunity for some of our Canadian ball players. With this end in view, the Ottawa scouts are already on the prowl for outstanding domestic talent.

Poland vs Becker:

The Ottawa Giants are lucky in their managerial choice, with Hugh Poland at the helm. A former major league catcher, Poland (like Toronto's Joe Becker) has risen rapidly in the New York Giants' baseball command. Now the two former big-leaguers are rival managers and the coming season should provide many a dramatic meeting between their teams.

One of the key men in the rebuilding of the Ottawa Giants is Carl Hubbell, the Baseball Hall of Fame southpaw, who now directs the Polo Grounds' farm teams and scouting departments.

With Poland, Gorman, Hubbell and the rest, Ottawa's Giants should prove a bright star in baseball's firmament.

Here's luck to them!

JEWISH WAR VETERANS CITES SILVER

The national executive committee of the Jewish War Veterans went on record, in New York, as opposed to rearmament of Western Germany and to military aid to Generalissimo Francisco Franco of Spain. Other resolutions urged support of President Truman's authority to assign troops to Europe and condemned the suppression of the newspaper La Prensa in Argentina. It was also voted to create a national committee to coordinate the organization's anti-Communist program. Past National Commander Frederick S. Harris of Meriden, Conn., will head the committee.

Dr. Abba Hillel Silver, former chairman of the American section of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, said that because "wars solve no basic international problems" it is better to give "material support" to the underprivileged areas of the world to contain Communism.

The J. W. V. cited Dr. Silver for "distinguished leadership in mobilizing the moral and material resources of world Jewry in the struggle to establish and secure in the free state of Israel a new life and a new hope for oppressed and persecuted Jews."

"The Journey" Is New U.J.A. Film Of Israel

"The Journey," a new film depicting the arrival of newcomers to Israel and their problems of readjustment there, has been released by the United Jewish Appeal for exhibit. Produced in Israel for the Appeal by John Ferno and directed by Robert Capa, "The Journey" tells the story of a group of immigrants with widely different backgrounds who arrive to start life afresh, their initial processing at a reception camp, and their journey to a settlement where their dreams of a homeland become a reality as they begin to till the land and build their homes.

Combining the authenticity of a documentary with a striking and personal drama, "The Journey", begun in Israel last fall, is introduced by Henry Morgenthau, Jr., honorary chairman of the United Jewish Appeal and chairman of the Board of Governors of the American Financial and Development Corporation for Israel. He was general chairman when work on "The Journey" started, and recalls a visit to the settlement of Tal Schachar, named in his honor. The story of this settlement in the Judean hills calls to the narrator's mind the tremendous work of building the new nation of Israel in other places, "along the Jordan, in the Galilee, across the Negev."

At the close of the film, Edward M. M. Warburg, general chairman of the 1951 United Jewish Appeal, urges the audience to remember the urgent tasks confronting Israel still and the threat of lack of time which menaces the future of 200,000 homeless Jews in other countries waiting to go to the new state. Throughout "The Journey" the great tasks confronting the people of Israel, the immediate need for housing and agricultural settlements to accommodate the mounting influx of new arrivals are made apparent as the narrative unfolds against the magnificent scenic background of Israel's hills and field.

There is the arrival of an immigrant ship in Haifa. The excitement of the moment, as the long-held dreams of the newcomers approach realization, is reflected in their faces. The drama of reunion with relatives, the joyous reception by the crowd who have come to welcome them, bring home the narrator's assertion that "no door will ever again be slammed in their faces." They are a heterogeneous lot, these newcomers from so many different countries, speaking a variety of languages but all eager to be constructive citizens of their new land. At the reception camp they are interviewed and tell of their readiness to start work.

But it is with Egon, a former Rumanian student, that "The Journey" is now concerned. Young and sensitive, he is uncertain of his future and yearns to become a doctor. His knowledge of Hebrew is insufficient, however, and he must go to a kibbutz to build with his hands, along with the others. Egon's journey to a new settlement in Galilee and his gradual adjustment to the life of a pioneer brings "The Journey" to its dramatic climax. In the course of its brief story, "The Journey" offers intimate glimpses of settlement life, the excitement of building, planting and transforming a "raw kibbutz" into a civilized settlement. These phases of the United Jewish Appeal's role in rescue and resettlement are made graphically clear in this film, which runs for 25 minutes.

Jews Of Italy Support Claims Of Israel

The Fourth Congress of the Union of Jewish Communities in Italy, in Rome, was addressed by Dr. Shlomo Ginossar, Israeli Minister in Rome, and by representatives of international Jewish organizations. On behalf of the World Jewish Congress executive, Dr. Gerhard M. Riegner stressed the necessity to "be vigilant in face of common dangers which, in many parts of the globe are threatening vital centres of Jewish life", to devote all efforts of the Jewish community to the strengthening of the State of Israel and to "develop common action in defence of Jewish right and interests in the Diaspora".

The Congress approved a resolution which paid tribute to the work of the World Jewish Congress in the defence of Jewish rights, to its continued efforts at the United Nations and in other international bodies, and expressed appreciation for the help given to Italian Jewry "in the political, cultural and legal fields".

The resolution pledged continued affiliation of Italian Jewry to, and fraternal co-operation with, the World Jewish Congress, and called on "all representative communities of national character which still have not affiliated to the World Jewish Congress to do so". Hope was also expressed for the resumption of Congress work in Eastern Europe. Resolutions were also approved strongly supporting the reparation claims of Israel against Germany, protesting against clemency shown to war criminals and registering strong protest aginst German rearmament. Signor Raffaele Cantoni, member of the World Jewish Congress executive, was re-elected president of the Union of Jewish Communities in Italy for another five-year term.

"Miss Israel", In New York, Is Vegetarian

Miriam Jaron, twenty-two-year-old "Miss Israel" of 1950, arrived on a British Overseas Airways Corporation plane from Israel via London for a five-week tour of the United States in behalf of the $500,000,000 State of Israel independence bond issue sale. Miss Jaron, who was chosen as "Miss Israel" from 2,000 girls in a beauty contest held in Tel Aviv last July will stay in New York for two weeks and then will appear at bond rallies in various cities.

Miss Jaron, who is married to Aryeh Jaruslawky, a medical student at the University of Jerusalem, and has a sixteen-months-old son, Ilan, said that the secret of her beauty is being a "strict vegetarian," which, she said, keeps her figure slim and complexion clear. She is a brunette, five feet seven inches tall and weighs 126 pounds. Her visit is sponsored by the Greater New York committee for the State of Israel independence bond drive. Miss Jaron wore a coat of diagonal plaid, a jewelled turban, open-sandals, and hoop earrings. Her type of beauty is oriental.

MARRIAGES

NATURMAN-SIGLER

The marriage of Betty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max I. Sigler, Maplewood Avenue, to Maier Naturman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boris Naturman, Mount Royal Boulevard, took place at Hillel House, McGill University, at one o'clock on Sunday, April 15. Rabbi Samuel Cass officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a long-sleeved, ankle-length gown of white cotton lace over taffeta, and a full-length veil of tulle illusion. Her bouquet was of stephanotis and mauve orchids. Miss Vita Naturman, sister of the groom, as maid of honor, wore a cocktail-length dress of pink organza, with toning cap, and a pink floral wristlet. Oscar Stitz was best man. The ushers were: L. Naturman, brother of the groom, and David Sigler, brother of the bride. Saul Honigman played the wedding music. The reception was held at Hillel House. Mr. and Mrs. Naturman left for New York to sail for a stay of several weeks in Europe before taking up residence in Haifa, Israel. Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Perlman, uncle and aunt of the bride, of Madison, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. Boris Levitsky, uncle and aunt of the groom, of Wilkes Barre, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Feigleson, uncle and aunt of the bride, of Toronto, Ont.; Dr. Anne Levy, aunt of the groom, of East Orange, N.J.; and Moshe Yuval, Consul General of Israel, were wedding guests.

POTECHIN-STEINBERG

The marriage of Mary, daughter of Frank Steinberg, 262 York Street, Ottawa, Ont., and the late Mrs. Steinberg, to Leonard Potechin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isidore Potechin, 101 Renfrew Avenue, Ottawa, Ont., took place on March 25, at two o'clock, at Congregation Machziki Adas Synagogue, in Ottawa. Rabbi Emanuel Lifschutz officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of ivory-slipper satin, made with a yoke of nylon net, trimmed with crystal beads in leaf design, a peplum, and a full skirt finishing in a long train. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was combined with a Juliet cap, trimmed with crystal beads, and she carried a mother of pearl Bible, adorned with a white orchid and streamers of stephanotis. Mrs. Samuel Kardish, sister of the bride, as matron of honour, wore a gown of pale mauve nylon over pale green, with a matching hat, and a corsage of Talisman roses. Miss Sally Steinberg, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, in a gown of lavender tulle, with matching hat, and carried a nosegay of yellow roses draped with yellow tulle. Norman Potechin, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were: Ernest Potechin, Max Steinberg, Norman Polowin, all of Ottawa, Ont.; Lionel Potechin, Arthur Bronstein, Irving Bernstein, Irv. Bernstein, and Edward Wald, all of Montreal. Candelabra, baskets of spring flowers, palms and ferns were used to decorate the altar; and satin bows, with clusters of flowers, adorned the aisles. In the hall of the synagogue, Mrs. Potechin, mother of the groom, received with Mrs. Kardish, sister of the bride, who was matron of honour. Mrs. Potechin wore a gown of elephant-grey crepe, with a yoke of beading. Her matching hat was of grey nylon tulle, trimmed with bird of paradise feathers, and she carried a cascade of yellow roses. For the wedding trip by motor, to New York, Philadelphia, Pa., Washington, D.C., and Boston, Mass., the bride wore a skipper-blue suit, with matching accessories, and a squirrel jacket. The couple will reside at 410 Chapel Street, Ottawa. Wedding guests from Montreal were: Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bernstein, grandparents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bronstein, Mr. and Mrs. Al. Foreman, Mr. and Mrs. Al. Bernstein, Mr. and Mrs. Ula Bernstein, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Ben. Bernstein, Mr. and Mrs. David Bernstein, Misses Ida Bernstein, Fanya Bernstein, and Sarah Bernstein; Issie Bernstein, Mr. and Mrs. William Potechin, and Mrs. Ida Potechin, uncles and aunts of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lach, Mrs. S. SULTANA OF TEHERAN

BY STANLEY ABRAMOVICH, DIRECTOR OF THE JOINT DISTRIBUTION COMMITTEE IN IRAN; GRADUATE OF JEWS COLLEGE, IN LONDON, ENGLAND.

In the southern part of Teheran, near the old city, sprawls the Jewish Mahaleh, the quarter where over ten thousand Jews live. Its narrow alleys are lined on both sides with low, crooked walls beyond which live the Jews of the Ghetto. Some of the streets are completely dark, and covered so that one has to bend down when walking through them. These are the oldest streets in the ghetto, built at a time when the Jewish quarter was frequently attacked by fanatical mobs. The low streets were a safeguard against sudden infiltration of large mobs and the darkness served as a cover for the trembling Jews. Somehow these Jews survived, somehow they did not entirely disappear in these persecutions, to live again in a shocking, choking ghetto, to bring children into the world who, at best, will inherit the poverty, squalor, sickness and filth of the Mahaleh.

These narrow streets teem with life. Barefooted children of all ages play in the dirt that is many years old. Cripples, idiots, fools, all push through the narrow ghetto streets, searching for something to divert their minds, some food to fill their stomachs. The streets are full of vendors selling wares that would be thrown on a scrap heap anywhere else in the world, selling food which is fingered by all passers-by, selling clothing almost beyond usefulness.

Above this din rises the shouting of small boys, advertising colored licorice displayed on wooden trays. The boy occasionally touches his goods with a wet finger which he puts into his mouth. Other boys sell soap, sweet cakes or socks. The crowd mills through these alleys. Girls and women covered with their "Chadors" move quietly among the vendors looking at the goods displayed, pushing their way to and from their houses. They do not tarry long in the streets. They attend to their business — and return home.

Among these women we can see Sultana, who is in a hurry. She must return home to her baby son who is waiting for her. Sultana's home is a small room. In that room live her husband, her child, her mother-in-law and Sultana. The mother-in-law is good to Sultana, but she is crippled, she cannot move, she lies in a corner of the room and mutters to herself. Sultana attends to all the needs of her mother-in-law, and these are many. Sultana was born in this ghetto. She was the eldest child in a large family. Her father could never earn enough money to feed all the children. Sultana went to school till the age of nine. After that time she worked at home, looking after her younger brothers and sisters. Their poverty was not greater than that of the other Jews, nor was it smaller.

Her father was a broker. If anyone wanted to buy anything he would find it and receive a commission whenever the deal was concluded. The trouble was that too few people wanted to buy too few things and Sultana's father could not always find the objects wanted. He spent the whole day in the streets in search of a seller or a buyer. He rarely found both. The money he earned he brought home, but this did not suffice for the simplest needs of the family.

Sultana never went beyond the ghetto. Her world began in their room and ended at the entrance to the ghetto. The school, the synagogue, the market, all were within the Mahaleh. She did not even wish to leave the Mahaleh. The stories she heard about the world outside the Mahaleh did not provoke a spirit of adventure within her. Anyway, a girl does not leave the Mahaleh on her own.

Sultana was married at a young age. Her husband was good to her, and she tried to fulfil all her duties just as her mother told her. Everybody's blessings were poured on her when she was expecting her first child. All agreed that Sultana would have a son. All signs portended the arrival of a "Bachor", a first-born to bring joy both to the parents and grandparents. Sultana, however, was sick and weak. She lost her child and with it the favor of her husband and parents. She became an object of derision even among her friends. She had not fulfilled her duty to her family. She had let them down.

When she lost her second child she became almost an outcast. Her husband was patient with her. He was disappointed but he never beat her. Her mother and her mother-in-law took her to the wise women of the Ghetto, they bought her the herbs and charmlets, they lighted the necessary number of candles in the synagogues, they even asked the Hazan to recite a "Mishberach" and waited, waited to see if Sultana would bear the son they were waiting for. They waited in vain. Sultana was sick. She lost her third child. She was not yet twenty years old and she was hopeful, but all the people of the United States in the decisive stages of the rebirth. It has been manifested since Israel's emergence as an independent state through a common adherence to the principles of democracy and peace under the banner of the United Nations."

David Ben-Gurion, Prime Minister of Israel, was introduced to the members of the three branches of the Federal Government at a luncheon given in his honor by President Truman. The luncheon was the first meeting between the visiting Prime Minister and President Truman. Mr. Truman, in a toast, paid his country's respects to Dr. Chaim Weizmann, President of Israel.

In reply, the Prime Minister recalled President Truman's part in bringing the Jewish state to fruition and the common ideals and pioneering spirit that link the new country with the United States.

Mr. Ben-Gurion met with W. Averell Harriman, special assistant to the President, and it was reported after the meeting that the two officials discussed the economic, commercial, supply and related problems of their Governments. The Israeli Premier also talked with Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall for about forty-five minutes about "the maintenance of peace in the Near East."

WILL HELP YOU MEET THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

...and Save

Saving money was never a cinch for any of us. But, today — with taxes up and prices taking the stairs three at a time, saving is really a tough assignment.

Still, all of us know we need to save . . . for our own good and for the country's good.

If we're going to succeed, there's only one answer — a plan by which we spend less than we receive.

See if Personal Planning doesn't show you that way. Personal Planning is helping others to save. It can help you, too. As one couple told us, "This is the first budget-plan that my husband and I felt we could really make work."

Pick up your copy of our "Personal Planning" booklet at your neighborhood branch of "MY BANK". You'll be glad you did.

Go And Behold The Miracle

This Friday, May 11, Jews throughout the world will observe the Third Anniversary of the Independence of the State of Israel. Alas, what a miracle our generation has been privileged to behold in reconstitution of the Jewish Nation in its ancestral home! Added to this miracle stand the miraculous achievements of the past three years in the infant state. It was our joy last summer to witness these achievements and all we can say is: thank God that we have lived to behold the wonders of it all!

On this third anniversary, when the process of creation of Jewish Statehood is in full swing, we urge fellow Jews of Canada, to go now to the land, the holy land, and behold this blooming period of the State of Israel. We urge our people here to go to the land and drink in the inspiration of its holy past and of its dynamic present

The Rev. Father Joseph Pare, S. J., prefector of St. Mary's College, Montreal, is observing this week his Jubilee year in the priesthood. We congratulate our revered friend and comrade, who not only celebrates a half-century of consecrated service to religion, to brotherhood, and to Canada, but also has reached three score and ten years. It is difficult to think of Father Pare as being seventy years old. He is so much the personification of youth and youthfulness. Thousands of young men have literally come under his direction and guidance and some of these are today the leaders in every department of Canadian life and are all the better because they have been influenced by such a saintly personality as the good Jesuit Father.

We first met with Father Pare on the high seas in 1929. He was on boat with a group of youths which he was leading on a pilgrimage to the eternal city of Rome. I, too, was leading a group on a pilgrimage, to the eternal city of Jerusalem. Well do I recall how our two groups joined in a fellowship supper on board ship the night before landing on the continent of Europe. From that day on, the friendship between Catholic Priest and Jewish Rabbi commenced to grow and what a fruitful friendship it has proven over the two decades of our association in all good works!

Here is not the place to record in detail how the good Father has been helpful in our work of building bridges of friendship, between the French Catholic community and that of the Jewish community. All that we wish to say now is that Rev. Joseph Pare proved a tower of strength in the battle against intolerance, ignorance, and prejudice. In particular are we indebted to him for having early understood the foulness and evil of Nazism, when its diabolic agents attempted to plant the seeds of this horrible thing in the Province of Quebec. Through the good offices of this noble teacher of youth, we have had the privilege of meeting with many of his disciples and students and to these we time and again had the privilege of interpreting the Jew and the Jewish mind.

In 1935, after we had met in audience with His Holiness, Pope Pius XI, and we described our meeting at the Vatican with this great leader of the Catholic Church in an editorial, it was none other than the good Father who succeeded in bringing our writing to the attention not only of the leading French Catholic authorities and communities in our Province, but also to the attention of the Catholic authorities in other parts of the world. We warmly felicitate our friend and pray that God may grant him many, many more years of usefulness to his Church, to Canada, and humanity. In the words of the traditional Jewish benediction, I say to Father Pare: may you go from strength to strength and reach the goal of 120 years, the very life span granted unto Moses, the greatest of teachers.

SULTANA OF TEHERAN

the "wise women" of the Mahaleh gave up hope. Apparently she was cursed and nothing could be done for her; not even the charmlets helped.

Her husband was sad. He loved Sultana but he knew that he must take another wife. He knew that this would hurt Sultana, but he could see no way out. To add to his troubles his mother became an invalid. She was deposited like a useless object in the corner of the room, on an old mattress. The room was a sad room. Sultana's husband left early in the morning to find his bread among the grinding throngs of the ghetto. He ran out of the room to forget his misery. A sick crippled mother in one corner waiting for death, and a childless wife in the other.

Sultana was brought to our clinic by her mother. They heard about the foreign doctor brought by the Joint Distribution Committee, financed by the United Jewish Appeal. They heard that he does not charge money. They even heard of sick people who had been helped by this foreign doctor. The mother did all the talking, while Sultana looked on silently, watching the doctor's face for any indication of hope. When they were advised to return in a week they would not leave. They wanted an answer immediately. Would Sultana be cured? Could the doctor help them?

They returned in a week, together with the husband. Again the anxious expectant look, again the hysterical scene, again the pleading fearful look on Sultana's face. Our doctor tried patiently to explain to them that Sultana is sick, infected with a disease that kills children, that Sultana and her husband will have to undergo a period of treatment before Sultana could hope to bear a healthy child. They were both frightened, shocked, they could not understand why Sultana's husband must come for injections to the doctor, they were doubtful about the doctor's analysis, but because they had no other suggestion, no other remedy, no option, they agreed under protest to submit to the prescribed treatment of the doctor.

Even the husband promised to come regularly to receive his penicillin injections. They tried to persuade the doctor to shorten the treatment, to change it to an ointment or a pill, but when they became convinced that our doctor was adamant in his opinion, they submitted and accepted the treatment. And Sultana had a son, a healthy boy. She brought him to the clinic to show him to the doctor. We had to be present at the "Bris". The father does not earn more money, he has remained the same poor peddler, but he is now known in the Mahaleh as Abu-Davood, David's father, and Sultana, she is happy, she is again respected in her ghetto alley.

Even in the eyes of the crippled grandmother flickers a new light. She plays with the baby, she holds it, looks at it and mutters her blessing. A curse has been removed from their house and her son does not need a second wife.

physically from such activity. The report, made public by Edward Hochhauser, executive director of the Committee for the Care of the Jewish Tuberculous which operates the Altro Workshop, recommended that rehabilitation of heart disease patients be maintained as a permanent project at the Workshop. He also said that the New York Heart Association and the National Heart Institute have urged that the Altro experiment be continued and that the State Rehabilitation Division has approved the program.
